

FASHION DESIGNER

A fashion course design course covers the end-to-end process of creation clothing and accessories, combining creative design with technical skill. Key components include fashion illustration, pattern drafting, garment construction, textile science, trend forecasting, and portfolio development, often incorporating digital design tools. Programs range from 6-months upwards.

Core Curriculum Components:

- Design & Illustration: Fashion sketching, figure drawing, color theory, mood boards, and digital design using software.
- Garment Construction & Technical Skills: Pattern making, cutting, sewing techniques, garment finishing, and fitting for men's, women's, and children's wear.
- Textile Science: Study of fabrics, properties (durability, texture), and fabric decoration techniques.
- Fashion Theory & Marketing: Trend analysis, forecasting, brand development, and fashion merchandising.
- Industry Practice: Portfolio development, studio management, and entrepreneurship.

Typical Course Structure:

- Certificates (6 – 12 months): Focus on basic tailoring, fashion crafts, and hands-on sewing
- Diploma (2-3 years): Cover advanced design techniques, pattern drafting, and merchandising.

Career Pathways:

Graduates can pursue careers as fashion designers, fashion illustrators, pattern makers, stylists, textile designers, or entrepreneurs.